

Brigid of Kildare

Crosses from
Gerry Molumby

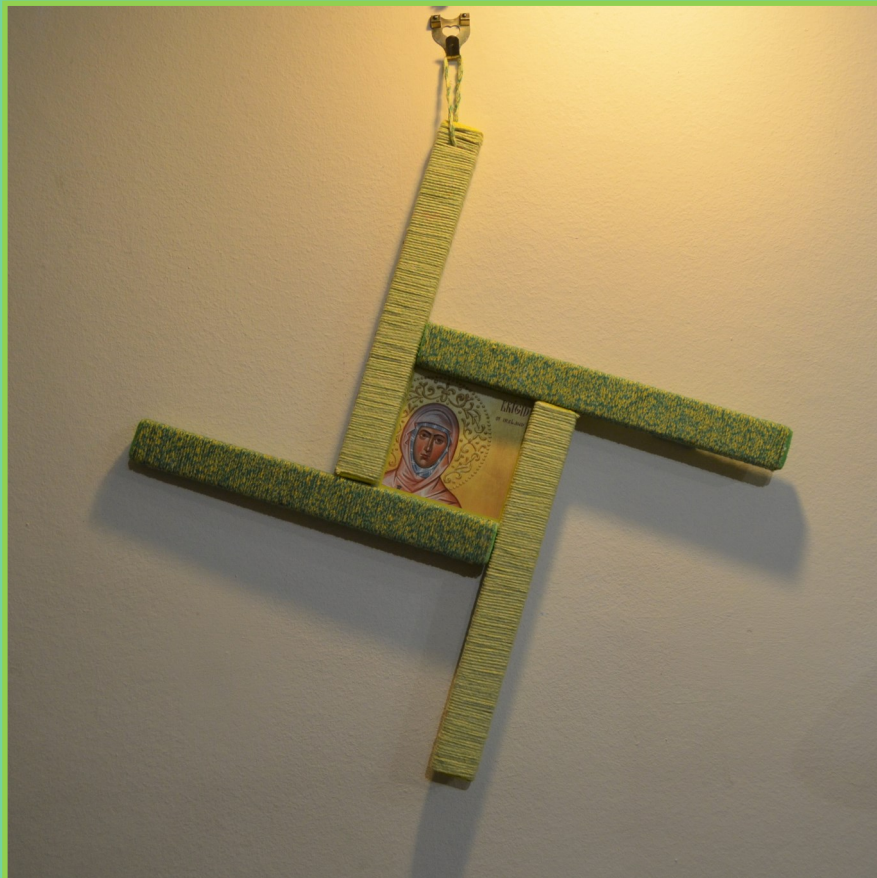

I have always liked the cross of Brigid, with it's simple or elaborate intricate 'crisscrossing' . Below are a number of samples of ones that I have made . I have endeavoured to be as creative and instinctive as possible and on occasion what I set out to create has ended up being very different. This occurs with the individual use or mix of painted wood, aran wool and icons of Brigid. Her name and cross is highly represented amongst the Irish Abroad, whether in churches , schools and GAA clubs . London was the source of the evolving St, Brigid Festival now celebrated via the Embassies and Consulates of Ireland worldwide.
